The Beauty Of God Theology

Christ's beauty is reflected in the fullness of God's character revealed in Him and the creation Christ set in motion through His Word. "Worship is the submission of all of our nature to God. It is the quickening of conscience by His holiness, Nourishment of mind by His truth, Purifying of imagination by His beauty, Opening of the heart to His love,

The Beauty of God: Theology and the Arts: Treier, Daniel J ...

God's beauty is the bouquet of His perfections in His person, unveiled in His purposes, and displayed in His glory. Another aspect of divine beauty is the infinity of God, which means, literally, that He is 'nonfinite'. To be finite means to have limits or bounds. So infinite is defined as 'without bounds or without limit'.

Quotes from The Beauty of God... "Hence the dazzling mountain scene that takes our breath away should not provoke us to try to seize and freeze the moment, but to give thanks and look ahead to the beauty of the new heaven and the new earth, of which this world's finest beauty is but a miniscule glimpse.

The Beauty of God: Theology and the Arts by Daniel J. Treier

The God-centeredness of beauty has everything to do with the objective beauty of the person of Christ; the beauty of the work of Christ, what's traditionally called redemption accomplished; and the beauty of Christ's work ongoing through the Holy Spirit, which is traditionally called redemption applied.

How Can I See the Beauty of God? | Desiring God

The Beauty of God contains a collection of ten essays presented at the 2006 Wheaton Theology Conference. The essays are divided topically into three categories: music, visual arts, and texts and culture. As with any collection of essays, viewpoints, perspectives, theology, and content vary from author to author.

The Beauty of God: Theology and the Arts - Reformation 21

The author's aim is "to explore and develop a theology of beauty based on God's plan in Christ. Thus the nature of beauty, as defined by the divine economy of redemption, which sums all things up in Jesus Christ (Eph 1:10), is pursued in a specifically biblical and systematic way from beginning to end." (1)

The Beauty of the Lord: Theology as Aesthetics (Studies in ...

The Bible presents God as infinitely beautiful. It uses words such as splendour, majesty, glory, honour, radiance, and delightful. Little wonder then that such a God would leave His 'beauty touch' on everything He created! Those who have caught a glimpse of God described the experience as: beholding, adoring, admiring, gazing.

A Theology of Beauty - finding truth matters

Pope Benedict tells us that the epitome of beauty is God's love. 26 Christ's total gift of self on the Cross is the most beautiful of human actions ever to have been performed, and it challenges the superficial notion of beauty dominant in our culture today. The beauty of our crucified Lord is not simply a harmony of proportion and form.

Pope Benedict XVI's Theology of Beauty and the New ...

David was surrounded by beauty—beautiful women, beautiful art, and the beauty of nature. Yet, his singular desire was not for all of those things, as beautiful as they were. Rather, his desire was simply to be in the presence of God—to gaze upon the beauty of the Lord—and that was enough.
